Cheap Whisky Making.

The Worky Trust has formally adopted the Takamine process, and will commence work under it immediately. This action was taken on Tuesday, and will completely revolutionize the whisky manufacturing business. The process will be used in all the distilleries

The process will be used in all the distilleres owned and controlled by the Distillers and Cattle Feeding Company.

This means that where the company now pays 12 cents to produce a given amount of hit liwines, they will pay 1.8 cents under the new process. The distilling combine has had control of the Takamine process for two years, during which time practical results have been obtained in the experiments, but the officials were disposed to keep it quiet. Besides reducing the cost from 12 cents to 1.8 cents for a given quantity of alcohol, it 1.S cents for a given quantity of alcohol, it effects a saving of 17 cents on each bushel of effects a saving of 17 cents on each bushel of small grain, and with a capacity for one distillery of 3,000 bushels each day, the saving alone in grain is an enormous item.

Furthermore, the whisky makers have at last found out that the Takamine process gives them a powerful weapon to defend the spirits trade. Not only in that line, but in the cattle-feeding branch, will a great saving be effected. By the old process the refuse from mashes was worth $11 per ton. The refuse from the Takamine tubs is worth for cattle feeding about $8 per ton more. Another feature of the new process that is pleasing to the whisky people is that in the continuous running of a distillery there will be an overyield in this process of two quarts of alcohol to the bushel.

From a letter written by Mrs. Ada E. Hurd, of Groton, S. D., we quote: "Was taken with a bad cold, which settled on my Lungs, cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. set in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Saviour, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in all, eight bottles; it has cured me, and thank God I am now a well and hearty woman." Trial bottles free at C. G. Lennon's Drug Store, 604 King street.
